Hi Cari – based on the email trail it looks like you are asking about training in standards during 2007. We provided training through 2 discretionary projects and had on-line modules called Pathways for Progress for all the access points subject areas. Currently we have 3 training modules on-line at www.floridastandards.org that provide orientation to access points, access courses, etc.
Hope this helps. Karen

Karen,

Can you help with the timeline on all this? Wasn't Marty's group responsible for the initial PD on Access Points?

I do not manage that project – that was Angie's project. Angie – can you assist?

Hi Cari,

I am not involved in any training for Access Points. I'm copying Sheryl who manages the project that has been involved. Maybe she can give you an update on PD for Access Points

Thanks,
Heather

Cari,

Thank you for your message. My Thanksgiving was terrific and I hope yours was the same! Regarding the 2007 standards - the only other effort there was at the time was in the course specific tracks that JRF provided – Kevin and I did try to emphasize the 2007 standards in the midst of those tracks. However, if you remember, nearly as soon as the 2007 standards were adopted, legislation was passed that required DOE to revisit those standards and use the “Next Generation” process. This was done, and the 2009 version of the Language Arts standards was developed – but before they could be adopted, talk of the Common Core began, so the 2009 version was tabled. I think that a large scale rollout/PD was never implemented for the 2007 standards because of the legislation that required us to go back and revisit them. Does that make sense?

Thanks for all of your work and have a great Monday!

Hi to all,

I hope you all had a great Thanksgiving! I got a question, do you all recall providing staff development for the 2007 standards; I know we provided PD during our Leadership Conference during the summer and adjusted the K-5 academies to ensure they were addressed, but didn't know if there was anything else done by the Department on the 2007 standards. Do you all recall?

Sincerely,
